

"Jack Barry" Gets Night's Lodging.

New York Times (1857-Current file); Feb 22, 1914; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The New York Times (1851 - 2005)
pg. S1

"Jack Barry" Gets Night's Lodging. |

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—By telling physicians at the West Side Hospital that he was Jack Barry, shortstop of the Philadelphia Athletics, a shabbily attired man last night enjoyed a good night's sleep in a clean bed. The man asked for free remedial attention, and after declaring he was Barry, was given special attention in a private ward. Charles Kuhn, ground keeper for the Cubs baseball park, was called in by the physicians and identified the man as Barry. Later, however, the man admitted he was not Barry when he was confronted with photographs of the baseball player.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.